

eFundi Tutorial: Announcements

The Announcement tool allows instructors to keep students and other site participants informed of news or updates to the course site. Announcements are usually text-only, but can also include attachments or links to web sites. This information is posted on the site homepage.

These messages can be set to show immediately, or to show during specific dates. Email notifications can be sent to alert participants of the Announcement message.

3. Access: By default, the visibility of your announcement is set to members of this site, meaning that only your site participants will be able to see it. If your students are using a pod catcher application to receive notifications of announcements or podcasts that are uploaded to your site, select the option to make the announcement publicly viewable. If you would like the announcement to only be sent to a specific group in the class, select the option to display to selected groups only, then, continue to select the relevant group.
Note: If you embed multimedia such as images or video in your announcement, and you would like it to also appear in the e-mails sent to students, you must select the option to make the announcement publicly viewable.
4. Availability: Allows you to decide when your announcement will be visible. The default is set to Show, meaning that your announcement will be immediately visible. Hide will not allow anyone else to see the announcement. Specify Dates allows you to choose a specific Beginning date and time for your announcement to be made visible as well as allowing you to specify an Ending date and time to retract it.
5. Attachments: You can add documents and files to the announcement by clicking on the Add Attachments button. You can add files from your computer, files that are already on the Internet using a URL, or files from your resources.

6. Email Notification: This option determines how your site participants receive the announcement through their e-mail. By default, the option None - No notification is selected so that no email notifications of the announcement will be sent. If you would like students to receive the e-mail, be sure to select the option High – All participants.

You can click the Preview button to view the announcement from a student perspective. Once you are happy with the announcement, click the Post Announcement button to send the announcement.
